

Successful move to the new company building - bachmaier creates space for new ideas

Bischofswiesen, 23.11.2022. At the end of October, the new company building of bachmaier GmbH was ceremoniously inaugurated together with all employees and their families. After three years of planning and more than one year of construction, a new company building with an open space concept was created in the Pfaffenfeld II industrial park in Bischofswiesen, which enables creative work and manufacturing processes to the highest quality standards.

After the official start of construction in August 2021, the first warehouse and shipping departments as well as the entire administration area moved into the new building in September 2022. The entire production team followed in October. The transition from Ramsau to Bischofswiesen went smoothly and without interrupting day-to-day business, allowing the team to continue working seamlessly at the new location. The move also marked the end of the spatial separation of the individual departments, which were spread across four buildings at the old location. On an area of around 1600 square meters, all employees are now finally under one roof.

Manufacturing with highest quality standards

Customized earmolds, hearing protection products and HEAROS In Ears are developed and produced in the new production facility, the "heart" of bachmaier. The special features of the individual work steps were taken into account during planning and create ideal conditions for a smooth process. The open and flexible production concept allows a quick overview, so that it is possible to intervene in the process at any time and react to peaks in demand. Each step is precisely documented and continuously checked - the highest quality standards at bachmaier are thus guaranteed. Modern sensor technology controls and regulates temperature, humidity and light in the laboratories and creates the best possible conditions for the manufacture of sensitive products. "We have placed great emphasis on designing a working environment with state-of-the-art workstations. This enables us to meet the diverse demands of our employees and further optimize process flows. Only in this way can we manufacture and deliver unique products of the highest quality." explains Fabian Kubicke, bachmaier Managing Director.

Open room concept to feel good

The benefits of the new site concept are convincing: The open-plan layout in all departments shortens communication channels, strengthens the sense of togetherness and creates space for new ideas. The new office concept with an open working environment improves interaction among employees and enables dynamic work processes. All employees, whether management, team leaders or office staff, work together in one place and for one cause. The casual work atmosphere and flat hierarchies promote employee motivation. Centrally located and modernly equipped meeting rooms offer space for online training, meetings or serve as a place for an exchange of ideas and teamwork. The spacious social area the bachmaier Café with various seating options and individual meeting rooms also promotes exchange among colleagues and invites them to linger. "Motivation and creativity arise when employees feel comfortable. That's why the planning of a large social area as well as workplaces with a feel-good character was a very special concern for us," emphasizes Katharina Irlinger, project manager for construction. The new warehouse and logistics center, which covers an area of around 400 square meters, ensures greater efficiency. Thanks to the well thought-out shelving system and a new packaging and shipping line, deliveries can be processed more quickly and goods movements can be organized economically and in a way that conserves resources.
